

641—1.11(141A) Contagious or infectious disease notification at time of death. The purpose of this rule is to establish contagious or infectious disease notification requirements for the information of any person handling a dead body.

1.11(1) A health care provider attending a person prior to the person's death shall, at the time of death, place with the body a written notice which specifies or signifies either "known contagious or infectious disease" or "suspected contagious or infectious disease."

1.11(2) The health facility in which the health care provider is working shall be responsible for establishing written procedures and implementing the specific internal practices necessary to satisfy this notification requirement.
